President's Message

First of all, let me thank the Board of Directors for giving me the opportunity to represent them (and the membership) as the President of Greyhound Pets of America, FL/SE Coast Chapter. I am delighted to serve in this position with some of the most dedicated individuals in animal welfare.

Congratulations to the re-elected Board members, Steve Booth, Elaine Ebner, Wally Griffin, Jean Marks, John Palmer and our newest member, Cathryn Vaughn. I also wish to thank Mace Tamse, Lisa Rosenberg, and Rick Allen for their continued support.

I want to thank Stephanie Aebersold for her dedication to GPA and the Greyhounds for so many years. Stephanie has stepped down from her position on the board and is pursuing other interests at this time. She has long been a mainstay of this organization and will be sorely missed.

I also want to thank Lisa Zimmerman for her service to the organization. Long time Board member, Lisa also took on the responsibility of design and layout of the quarterly newsletter, in addition to doing field checks, adoptions, kennel shifts, and many other important duties within the organization. Lisa will soon be relocating to Georgia and we wish her all the best in her new home.

■ ■ ■ It takes a village ■ ■ ■

There is no way to run an organization of this size without teamwork. The sharing of duties and responsibilities among both the Board members and the general membership is a must in order to have the group move forward. The Board of Directors and many of our members put in innumerable hours taking care of the dogs, working at the kennel property and completing the paperwork and the record keeping that surrounds their care and adoption.

There is always a need for more people to assist in these duties. Volunteering to do a kennel shift once a week is one way of letting us know how much you enjoy being with the Greyhounds. Scheduling time to do a "meet and greet" is another way of helping – as adoptions can't come from people who don't know about the availability of the dogs.

Soliciting donations for our events is appreciated and even volunteering to fill an open position on a committee – for example: fundraising – is what we are looking for. If you can find time to volunteer for any of the above, please let me know and I will put you in touch with the right person in that department.

Please join our team and let's make this a banner year for GPA!

Join special guests News Channel 5's Dean Tendrich and Captain Julie for an afternoon of fun promoting Greyhound adoption. Tickets are $40 if purchased ahead for this sit-down dinner and $350 for a table of 10 when purchased in advance. (Tickets are $45 at the door)

Our mission right now is to get sponsors. Need a sponsor application? Use the one enclosed and photocopy for your friends, neighbors and relatives. If you need multiple copies and do not have access to a copy machine, contact me and I'll get you however many you need. Do you have a large corporate sponsor you want to approach? I have the logo page of the sponsor flyer in color to show them how their business will be highlighted and I can get you as many as you need. You may also print a copy of either of the flyers through our website (greyhoundpetsfl.org).

Ticket requests may come in at anytime, but tickets will not be mailed out until early January. It is recommended you get your tickets early as this is a very special event for GPA and the Greyhounds.

The Miss Gold Coast USA pageant contestants are eager to work with us on this event. Glenda Byrd has them fired up to be there among our members and friends to promote and raise funds for Greyhound adoption.

The fashion show must be a team effort. Please take some time to help us by getting sponsors for the event. For us to be successful, this year, will require the efforts of our membership. If you need further information just call or e-mail Barbara Masi at 737-1941 or BarbaraMasi@adelphia.net.

Hurricane Wilma Angels

It was hard to believe that Hurricane Wilma came right across the state of Florida just a year after Francis and Jeanne. We made it through the two last year, and survived Wilma with the help of our hurricane angels who took dogs from the kennel into their homes during the storm.

These Hurricane Angels include Sharon Lamb who took Betty, Kathy and Jim Hein who took and subsequently adopted Blizzard, Jason Nash who took and subsequently adopted Botana and Traci and Brad Elling who homed Stormy.

We also wish to thank Wally Griffin, John Palmer, Mace Tamse and all the others who lent a hand clearing the yard after Wilma. Our caretakers, Robin and Jesse McClain, were there to take care of the property during the storm and to take care of all of the other dogs at the kennel.

Our deepest thanks to all these people who were there to help at a time of great need.

Unsung Heroes

by Cathryn Vaughn

Recently the adoption kennel had an unwanted visitor, a coral snake. The grass was long and it was becoming scary to walk the dogs in the area. One sunny day Tony Mangola and his friend Mike, took it upon themselves to cut the grass. On 1.2 acres, lawn mowing can be quite a task. The lawn looked beautiful and our grey's were safe from the visiting coral snake.

The snake has left us but Tony & Mike's love for the grey's has not. Each week Tony and Mike come and care for the dogs as if they were their own. Tony has four of his own to care for and every time he is at the kennel he has a few more. If you have ever had an opportunity to see Tony with his precious Penny you will understand just how special his love is.

Tony and his friend Mike are partners in Fetch Pet Care (one of our newsletter advertisers) and often schedule a booth for their business at local events. They always ask us to join them with our Greyhounds – and they pick up the banner, brochures, donation bunnies and they also pick up the tab for the booth. We are so grateful to them for sharing their booth with GPA Greys and their humans!

At any moment Tony is there to pick up a shift someone else can not cover. He is bright eyed even at 7:30 am on a weekend. No matter what the situation Tony is there to love and care for the sweet adoptables and that is why Tony is an unsung hero.

Thank You to all our Unsung Heroes including those that have not been listed in this issue and there are many.

Hurricane Helpers

Shortly after Hurricane Katrina hit the New Orleans area with such an impact, we received a call on the GPA phone line from a couple who had taken their two Greyhounds and evacuated to South Florida (they got out just before Katrina hit). They were staying at a hotel and the two Greys were in a kennel – but they were eager to get the Greys out of that situation.

Mike and Nicole Holt were going to be able to stay with a friend of theirs in this area, but they could not keep the dogs there. We put out a broadcast to all GPA members for help and we were swamped with replies. So many of our members offered to do whatever necessary to give this couple some peace of mind while they figured out where they were going to go from there.

As it turned out, Isabela and Gillis Melancon were the ones who took in Attie and Kid for a little over a week. They shared their home with these furbabies, along with having the Holts over for dinner and the evening. It turns out that they had a lot in common, since Gillis is from New Orleans, and they were able to reminisce the city before Katrina.

Mike and Nicole returned to New Orleans and have reported back that they have a new roof on their house, but that there are still holes still in the attic and the siding was destroyed. But they considered themselves luckier than most in that they had a house to go home to.

We wish to thank ALL the GPA members who offered to assist this couple in their time of need, and especially Isabela and Gillis who went above and beyond the call to help out another Greyhound owner.

Nothing In Life Is Free (N.I.L.F.)

Sometimes a new adopter brings home the perfect greyhound, sweet, calm & gentle. A few weeks or months pass and all of a sudden, for no apparent reason, the perfect dog becomes aggressive either towards other dogs or people.

Should this happen to you, it is recommended you observe the behavior of the dog and make sure that there are no underlying issues such as pain or an injury. If that is the case, make sure you see your Vet right away.

Also note the conditions surrounding the aggression, is it always in the morning or is it at night? Provided there are no other factors aggravating the dog you may want to consider your behaviors. Have you done things to make your dog feel like he needs to protect you or have you made him question his position in the house. You may need to remind the dog who is boss. Although we love our hounds and we want to give them every comfort of his new home, it is our duty to "be the boss".

Below is the N.I.L.F. program. It is certainly not easy and, trust me, your greyhound will do everything he can to break you down. But, for the sake of your dog and the harmony in your home it is important you follow these guidelines:

- The primary rule is that you must give to receive and positive reinforcement.
- Avoid circumstances that elicit the aggression — at least temporarily. Later you'll be able to work on desensitization, but only after you've gotten the dog's cooperation, not resistance. (If you don't know how to train this, go to a class, then start N.I.L.F., it is very important that your dog knows some basic commands before you begin the program.)
- When the dog comes over for affection, don't give in. If you call him and he responds then you can pet him.

Waggin' Tales at the local library

Marilyn Mittleman and Mocha are working with children doing a Waggin' Tales program at their local Library. This program is also referred to as Reading to Rover by another of the Therapy organizations and is exciting for the youth learning to read. Since Greyhounds are such mild mannered dogs, many are allowed to go into their local Library without being a certified Therapy dog. Rocket, Flash, Jet and Bullet Masi do a program in Boynton Beach called Greyhounds and Grade Schoolers – and they only have a certificate of insurance and proof of their shots.

It seems that children often find it intimidating to read to adults – as adults are often very critical. And, while the children are learning to read the words, they practice pronunciation while reading the words. What dog has ever complained at being stroked gently and spoken to softly while sitting alongside a child?

Mocha has passed her Good Citizen test as part of the therapy training she has been through. Marilyn admitted “ When we began, I realized that I never took Mocha out except to visit the Vet. He was afraid of riding in the car. He was afraid of people because we never met any strangers. He trembled through the first two classes. Then, going to class with the same half dozen dogs each week helped Mocha realize that riding in the car could have a fun outcome.”

To read with the children at the Library, Mocha has to lie quietly for at least 15 minutes while the child reads. Sometimes he stands up, stretching his legs, and then he is encouraged to return to his rug.

“I must mention that Mocha turned 12 in June and has some stiff leg/arthritis problems, so staying in one position for too long can be difficult.” said Marilyn. “Most of the children we’ve read with have enjoyed participating with Mocha. He has very soft fur and never has a “doggy odor”. He doesn’t charge at anyone, doesn’t jump on anyone, and doesn’t lick anyone. From what I’ve seen of the other dogs in the program, Mocha is one of two most gentle and quiet dogs.”

The Masi Pack is also faced with an additional challenge in going to the library for reading programs. Often there are teenagers there who consider one of the other reading dogs (a Pomeranian) a “bait” dog. They admire their own Rottweiler / Pit Bull mixed puppies – and we all know what they are being raised for. These teens are enamored by the size of the Greyhounds – and amazed at their gentleness. Sometimes the children’s Librarian is even more surprised at the teenagers learning that dogs can be good companions than the younger children learning to read. She considers it a dual benefit for the Greyhounds to visit the Library.

Senior Quirks

by Abbey Zap

Every single day I feel ecstatic over my dogs, from those in my past to those I now have. Each animal is different, each one brings something different to you, each one offers you their special thing. I have received so much from them, more than I could ever give. Polo is now aging at 12.5 years. But along with that, he is still just a rip...and the sweetest boy. Only now he has his ‘quirks’ over eating. Each meal is an interesting challenge to see how I can get him to finish it. I do win simply because I am at his beck and call. He loves freeze dried, he gets it. Oh, no, I’d like some yams too. Ok. Nah, I think a little yogurt would be a good topper! Ok. Oh no, fish oil gels? I can’t possibly eat them anymore, please give me liquid only. Sure thing. Medicine? Well ok, if you put it in peanut butter or the likes. Absolutely! Hmmm, the freeze dried is soft, you soaked it! Please Mom, only slivered up please. Kibble is fine thank you as long as you offer up a different topping each day. And lastly, I am NOT going to stand at my feeding station any more thank you. I want US to sit on my bed and you should pet me while I eat. Ok, will do. And do not leave me because then I will flip my bowl and spill it all over. Yes my royal highness!

Jesse, at 6.5, is such a delight. He gets miffed that Polo takes so long to eat now because they each get a treat after each meal (dessert) and now it takes 10-15 minutes to get it, ha ha. Though Jesse adores Polo, I think he could be happy as an only dog also as after an initial greeting, his attention goes back to ME! He adores me!

And Tomcat is Gary's. He just can't get close enough to Gary all night long.

Last, I thank Polo for all the bonds I have made with people, because of him (being our first grey).

Alexandra and Nikki

by Sonia Strateman

Alexandra came to me last year with $72 and asked me if she could "buy" a greyhound. She said that all of ours follow me and she really wanted her own that would sleep with her and follow her. We went to the compound (you know that I have a hard time saying no!) and Arthur let us see his dogs. Alexandra saw so many, mostly girls, that went right up to her kissing, ect. Nicholas, then Dan, was in the back of his crate and when Arthur pulled him out he was just so terrified. He would pee all over himself when anyone would even look at him. Alexandra said she wanted him! I was so proud of her!

We brought him home and kept him on a leash for a really long time. Alexandra did everything with him! I would walk in her room and he would pee all over himself. It was so sad. Chris and I let him out a few nights after Alexandra went to sleep, without a leash, and we would have to wake her up to get him back in. He was too scared to even follow the other dogs. It took a LONG time but he is so wonderful now. He gets a little nervous still when we have new people over but for the most part he is an entirely different dog. Really amazing. Arthur still can't believe it! Alexandra did a wonderful job!!!

Long story short,,,,,,Alexandra got her wish of her OWN dog and I know she will be a wonderful "grownup" for it!!! (We were reading Russian history when we named him,hence the Nicholas and Alexandra!) Alexandra and Nikki were recently featured on News Channel 5's Pet Pics with Dean Tendrich.

"The two girls are my daughters. The dog is "Winnie", our pet of the last 9 years, who now has cancer and will be with us just a short time. I am her veterinarian and am so far able to control her pain, but I know I won't be able to forever. The photos show very well what can happen in 8 years, and I thought that since we originally got Winnie from GPA of S FL (from Emily and Wally years ago) that you might be interested in seeing these photos.

The first one appeared on the National Greyhound Calendar in 1996 or 97. She has been a really good dog, and our house will seem empty after she is gone."

Sport Aebersold

by Abbey Zap

It is with a heavy heart that I tell you that yet another wonderful greyhound has gone to the Rainbow Bridge. Sport, aka Katsu ESPN, left this planet in the arms of his mom, Stephanie Aebersold, on Saturday evening November 5th. Sporty was loping back to the house after a potty break when he fell, breaking his leg; Hollywood Animal Hospital confirmed the worst. Osteosarcoma!

For those of you fortunate enough not to know, this is a very aggressive form of bone cancer that has taken some of our wonderful pups (Maven Tuckman, Smiley Marks, Bigwig Rosenberg to name but a few...and now the infamous Sportster!). Stephanie wanted so badly to keep Sporty with her longer but put him first; he died in her arms, surrounded by her love, as always. Let me tell you a little bit about this high maintenance, pain in the tush dog. He was a love sponge; he was a funny, silly, goofball who, in spite of his fears, loved life. He had a happy tail and a happy heart. He is survived by Stephanie and Bob, his brother grey, Mac and his brother IG, Pico. Sweet dreams dear Sporty. You left too soon but you made your mark on everyone who met you! Your wonderful singing will be missed by all who knew you; you were the best!

Sport

- At feeding time, the dog must “wait” until you say ok
- Once you’ve given the command, don’t give your dog what it wants until it does what you want. Being consistent is EXTREMELY IMPORTANT! If he refuses to perform the command, walk away, come back a few minutes later and start the process over again. If your dog refuses to obey the command, be patient and remember that eventually it will have to obey your command in order to get what it wants.
- NILF — Nothing in life is free. This means the dog must PERFORM to get anything it wants. (BTW — when you start introducing NILF, carry food AT ALL TIMES — you’re still rewarding the dog for submitting - this is NONCONFRONTATIONAL. Reward for a LONG time, then wean off food sporadically, but still praise the behavior.)

Obedience class is essential when implementing N.I.L.F. Unless you are capable of training a dog without an instructor, it is highly recommended that a new dog go to obedience class, they are offered at most large chain pet stores and most community classes.

Depending on the severity of the aggression you can modify N.I.L.F. to fit your needs. “Nothing in life is free” is not a cure-all, that will solve every behavior problem but it will help your canine companion to behave better in your family “pack,” because your pet trusts and accepts you as “the pack leader,” and is confident knowing its place in your family. In addition, N.I.L.F. works best on a dog that has been in the home for at least a few weeks. Allow the dog sometime to acclimate to his new surroundings before you make dramatic changes. The dog may have to take a little time to develop a desire to please you.

Things do not always come easy so sometimes in order for you to have the perfect dog you have to learn to be the perfect owner.
